WASHINGTON, D.C. (AP) — President Donald Trump on Sunday criticized India's trade policies and its growing ties with Russia, warning that the United States may impose new tariffs on Indian goods. Trump said the administration is reviewing the impact of India's policies on the U.S. economy and that any new measures would be aimed at protecting American jobs and industries.

Trump said: "India's trade policies are unfair to the United States. They are imposing high tariffs on our goods and are not doing the same for us. We are looking at 25% tariffs on many Indian products. We will take action if necessary to protect our interests."

Trump also criticized India's growing relationship with Russia, saying it is "a major problem for the United States." He said the two countries are "working together to undermine the United States and its allies."

Trump said the administration is "looking at all options" to address the situation. He said the U.S. is "not going to let India and Russia get away with this."
